

Transforming Digital Learning for School Success

An interactive online leadership seminar series that empowers administrators to effectively lead and evaluate schools that are using virtual instruction.

Administrators will learn about:

- Building a solid foundation for the growth of digital learning
- Communicating with staff, students, families, and stakeholders
- Fostering a community of innovation
- Developing operational processes and procedures
- Managing learners' technological needs
- Meeting the needs of special populations
- Assessing and procuring quality digital content
- Providing staff structures for personal and professional growth
- Evaluating teachers in the digital learning classroom

"This was an invaluable learning opportunity. It gave me the opportunity and time to discover online resources and share with my peers. I felt confident at the completion of this seminar in knowing I had a vision and a plan that would continue to set high expectations. Thank you for this learning opportunity!"

-Vanessa McNeff

Interactive Seminar Design

This seminar series was developed by several of the nation's leading experts on education technology, online learning, and the transition to online instruction. Learning modules are built around a framework of Discover-Discuss-Demonstrate, to ensure that participants have the opportunity to engage with course concepts and link those concepts to practices in their schools. Participants who complete the course will receive a Professional Development certificate of completion and a badge indicating they are prepared to lead digitally supported schools and evaluate virtual teaching.

Learning in Small-Group Cohorts

These interactive, facilitated seminars are hosted in an online learning portal where participants can progress through resource material on their own time and engage with other participants in small-group sessions.

Guidance by Expert Facilitators

EdisonLearning's staff of expert instructional and school leaders serve as the course facilitators. Our staff and teachers go through a rigorous training and onboarding process and follow standardized online teaching practices based on Quality Matters and the National Standards for Quality Online Teaching. With 167 years of combined online teaching experience and over 80 teaching certifications combined, our team is ready to help your school succeed.

Join a Leadership Seminar Today!

edisonlearning.com

EdisonLearning

One East Broward Blvd., Suite 1599
Fort Lauderdale, Florida 33301

Connect with us

